

Le K2 Chogori, Val d'Isere, France

A clear indicator of Val d'Isère's move upmarket: the old Moris Pub and the rough-and-ready hotel above it have been demolished to make way for an offshoot of Courchevel's three-strong K2 group of hotels (one of which boasts "palace" status and a two-Michelin star restaurant). The Val d'Isère hotel, opening on December 17, is set across two dark wood and stone chalets, with 21 rooms, a spa and a Peruvian restaurant. Doubles from €550 per night, including breakfast; lek2chogori.com
