

The 10 most beautiful spa hotels in the Alps

Downhill skiing, cross-country skiing, snowshoe trekking... For lovers of snowy slopes, the Alpine resorts are an exceptional playground, especially as they are home to high-altitude cocoons with wellness areas for relaxing after the effort. Here's a closer look at ten beautiful spa hotels in the Alps across Europe.

6. K2 Chogori, Val d'Isère

The hotel? The latest addition to the K2 Collections group, owned by the Capezone family, this 5-star hotel is one of the finest addresses in the sporty Val d'Isère area. Blending mountain authenticity, sleek design and noble materials (wood and stone), it exudes an elegant atmosphere inspired by Himalayan peaks. In addition to its name (K2, a peak culminating at 8611 m on the Chinese-Pakistani border, and Chogori, which means "big mountain" in the Tibeto-Burmese language), objects reminiscent of Tibetan codes and inscriptions in Sanskrit are distilled here and there. The 21 rooms and suites (including two penthouses) resemble luxurious alpine cocoons, where brushed wood cohabits with local craftsmanship. The Altiplano restaurant offers sharing cuisine with Peruvian specialties.

The spa? After some crazy descents, head for the Goji Spa, named after the delicate berry with its many properties. Jacuzzi, hammam, sauna and laps in the 12 m pool precede a Nescens snow ritual in the cabin. Swiss cosmeceuticals help repair skin damaged by the cold and relieve overworked muscles.
